by admitting correspondence, endorse the views expressed.

There are some writers for the press of this city who seem to consider their own postulates so impregnable that they seldom appear in print save to defend their own castle, and as a general thing, their egoism is so intense that they cannot admit that others may be right in the slightest degree. Those who happen to hold a different opinion, and express it, are dogmatically told that they are displaying their ignorance; and this settles the disputed point. But is it not barely possible that the positive writer may be only making a sorry display of his own ignorance?

We, in our "ignorance," believe that the "Certificate of Deposit" of the Treasury, counmade are Yellow and Granulated, and prices range from 11c to 13tc, according to grade. about our social surroundings, from the perusal of our own newspaper. The editor of the Taranaki (New Zealand) Herald has got hold of a copy of the PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER, of March last, and straightway he sits down to tell his readers all about us. He begins by explaining that "The new mail route to England via San Francisco has brought into more prominent notice the small ocean settlement at Honolulu, at which a weekly paper is published, and from the pages of which we are able to gather what is the social and commercial condition of the settlement." There's a check to the proud ambition of our city, to be thus depreciatingly dubbed by a tattooed New Zealander, "a@small ocean settlement!" He then goes on to say of our land tenures that, " We find that although the title would not be such as to satisfy a strict conveyancer, that property will sell." It is difficult to imagine where this critic gets his information that our land titles are unsatisfactory, when the fact is that there are none better or on a firmer foundation than those of these islands. He was probably thinking at the time of his own New Zealand, where for years past a bloody and costly war has been going on FROM NEWCASTLE, N. S. W.—Per Agate, Aug. 5th:—873 between the aboriginal owners of the soil and the European settlers, all about the titles to lands. and which has involved the Colony in a war debt of no less than £7,000,000. Viewing our natives through the focus of his New Zealand spectacles, it is not remarkable that the Editor is surprised that our auctioneers "are allowed to sell freely, arms and ammunition." It would not do, we may well suppose, to permit such privileges among the Maoris, fiercely struggling with European settlers for the possession of their pat-

Speaking of our productions, there is a volume of reproach contained in these words: "The dairy interest does not seem to be energetically irsued, as butter is two shillings a pound, and is imported from Australia. Could not Taranaki spare seme?" Doubtless Taranaki could, and make money by the operation, as the Herald quotes butter in that market at from fourteen to sixteen cents per pound, and cheese from eight to ten cents. The fact does not speak well for our home enterprise and industry that, with our "cattle upon a thousand hills," and beef at eight cents per pound, (it brings fourteen in Taranaki) we are content to pay a foreign merchant a half a dollar a pound for butter from over the seas. Naturally enough our critic thinks that-" The hotel business must be brisk, for we find that Hooper's lot sold for £2000, and it is proposed to erect a large hotel, forthwith. Native industry, again." Now does not that echo of our grand hotel sound nice, coming to us all the way from the antipodes? "The hotel business must be brisk!" So indeed it is, just now in the way of piling up blocks of concrete with "native industry" for future government offices. But we won't enlighten our New Zealander any farther on that point. Noting the fact that a Chinaman was fined heavily for peddling gin to natives, it is argued that " these aborigines are, consequently, a very temperate people," (because they buy gin surreptitiously?) and then some surprise is expressed that three "jolly tars" were fined in De Police Court only eight shillings each for druckenness. On this showing the editor concludes that "the and then proceeds to feel bad about it.

"There she Blows."

Undeterred by the awkward experience of previous attempts to grapple with the subject of the departure of the whalers, the Gazette of this under his poor burning head the pillow, that she week persists in again "putting its foot into it." It intimates its belief that the business of Arctic this ocean long after it is given up by New Bedford and New London. Now if the old-established ship-owners-the " Nabobs of the cities of blubber," as the Gazette has elegantly termed erate from the ports of this ocean, where the cost powers, endorsing his truthfulness. of vessels and everything pertaining to the business is dearer, and where men-"green hands," more properly-of the requisite class are not it is said available? But the truth is, in favor of San Francisco as a place of resort for the whalers, that the supplies, purchased and manufactured cheaply in the Atlantic ports, can be sent overland more promptly and at less charge for transportation than they can be sent here via the Horn, and the same remark will apply to the procuring and transportation of crews. It is quite probable that the "Nabobs" before-mentioned have taken all these facts into consideration before ordering their ships to rendezvous at San Francisco, and that they are quite as well posted on all the pros and cons of the case as the sapient

But by way of a clincher to the arguments in favor of Honolulu as a cheaper place of call and discharge for the whalers than its rival, the Gazette very ingenuously concludes:

"It is almost unnecessary to point out the great difference in the price at which crews are paid off here and that at which they will be paid off in San Francisco. It may have been when a half dozen ships visited that port they could get the Consular rates from here at which to pay off, but the moment the whole fleet resort there they will have to pay off at rates equal to the market price there, and on the full amount of oil and bone landed. If, as we are told, owners frequently lose by paying of at Consular rates here, it is evident that their losses there would be so great in this respect as to be ruinous. "These reasons, together with the fact that San Francisco is a home port, where all the difficulties of the season can be, and generally are, settled, as some have found to their very great inconvenience, will make San Francisco an impracticable and expensive port, and one, in our opinion, at which whalers can not recruit so long as the business is carried on from ports in the East."

Which, being submitted to the process usually applied to blubber, means, when "boiled down," -that, "Contradistinguished from the practice which has obtained in Honolulu, crews will be paid off in San Francisco at honest and fair rates, on all that they catch; and that if any injustice has been done or outrage committed on the crew during the season, the remedy will there be promptly found and applied." Really, the zeal of Johnson's SUGAR CURED HAMS our contemporary bath eaten up his discretion, and betrayed him into a most unfortunate way of putting things."
